

Stats Classes: Several Spots Still Available

We still have several seats left for our second weekend of Statistics Classes. Do you think statistical analysis could take your improvement efforts to the next level? Maybe you already have the skills, but could use a refresher? These classes are for you. This is also an ideal opportunity for those preparing for an ASQ Certification.

Saturday, October 7th is a full-day class covering introductory topics. The class on Sunday, October 8th, is a half-day class exploring more advanced topics.

Classes will be held at Red Rocks Community College. The Basics Class is $175 and the Advanced Class is $95. Or sign up for both for $250.

Resume (Re)Building Part 2

In October, we heard from Matthew Panning about writing a strong resume that will get noticed. Come join us Tuesday, November 14th, as TJ Carlson continues the discussion. Learn how a well written resume is an effective marketing tool that will open doors for you.

Holiday Happy Hour

Your leadership team is working on another great membership appreciation event for December. We're thinking about a casual happy hour event for ASQ Denver members and their families. Details will be posted on the website as they become available.

Use Your Powers for Good

Hosting great events and keeping our section humming is a team effort. Joining the leadership team is a rewarding way to earn RUs and see the local side of ASQ. Find out how you already have super powers and how you can use them for the good of the section. Contact us at info@asq1300.org.

2018 Calendar Taking Shape

The ASQ Denver Leadership Team is currently working on our 2018 Calendar of events. We are looking for speakers for our monthly dinner meetings. We are also looking for ideas for more tours for 2018. If you have any suggestions, please email us at info@asq1300.org.

Look for more information about these and other great events on our website: www.asq1300.org.
